

Peer Review: Santiago

Over the last few projects, I have gotten to trade ideas and info with Santi while working on our separate projects and we clicked very well. So it made sense to try and team up with him to do this group project and it paid off very well. He made sure to get everything started quickly and setup so that we were not wasting time. He has put in a lot of effort onto his page and his ideas for certain aspects of the website have been insightful. He did really well in his coding and communication with our team and made it really easy to work with in general. I would say the only thing that is nitpicky is that he hardly ever pushed any of his work to main except in big chunks if I remember correctly, but its not even a critique more of a personal preference. He made my job easier especially cause I was very sick this week and it was sometimes very difficult to work. Very exceptional job and is someone I would work with again.
